#AAD2022

Under the patronage of the President of the Republic of South Africa and the Honourable Minister of Defence and Military Veterans Ms Thandi Modise, the organisers of Africa's premier defence and aerospace show and exhibition are set to deliver the 11th edition of the Africa Aerospace and Defence (AAD) from 21- 25 September 2022 at the Air Force Base Waterkloof, Tshwane.

The resounding impact of COVID-19 on the world's economies continues to be the driving force behind our preparations for AAD2022. Plans are in place to provide you – our valued exhibitors - with a platform at which you can adequately showcase your innovative resilience in addressing the pandemic, your efforts to stave off its continued resurgence and related impact, but more importantly your migration towards remaining sustainable in a post COVID era. AAD2022 is ideally positioned to host the integration of real time and virtual activations, able to reach a globally wide audience of stakeholders and peers.

The largest gathering of decision makers, innovators and buyers in defence and aviation on the African continent, it's time you secured your place at Africa's premier exhibition, branding and sponsorship opportunities #AAD2022.

We remain committed to aligning with Government, as well as other global health organisations such as the World Health Organisation (WHO), in overcoming the global Covid-19 pandemic. "We have been working diligently to ensure that the upcoming edition of AAD is safe and business conducive for our exhibitors, sponsors and stakeholders. Adhering to strict and regulated health and safety protocols is of paramount importance to us." Sandile Ndlovu, Executive Committee Chairperson AAD 2022

We look forward to welcoming you back to the Air Force Base Waterkloof in 2022.

Yours in Unlocking Africa's Aerospace and Defence potential in a post COVID world.
The AAD team.

"The Africa Aerospace and Defence exhibition offers a massive opportunity for all present to identify areas of synergy and convert them into joint ventures."

- His Excellency Matamela Cyril Ramaphosa
